CALL FOR PRESENTATIONS

ESTECO and CPOMD are proud to announce the 7th edition of modeFRONTIER International Users' Meeting. This biennial event is a leading forum for users, researchers, practitioners and developers to exchange techniques, experiences and methods in simulation and optimization technology.

The conference is open to both academic and industry contributions showing how ESTECO Technology has been applied to accelerate product innovation.

Topics covered in previous UM agendas include:

- rationalization of the designing process;
- product optimization in terms of technical requirements and also of process, product and marketing metrics;
- applicability and reliability of decision-support IT tools in a context of diverse goals, experience and approach, whether professional or managerial;
- parallel engineering and design organization in industrial networks with suppliers increasingly involved in the process.

Past editions of the meeting attest to the global nature of the initiative with more than 600 users from over 50 countries and more than 180 speakers from innovative international companies and research centers.

Keen on sharing your experience with modeFRONTIER? >>

We welcome presentations or papers which are not under review by other conferences or journals. The conference is open to both academic and industry contributions.
